

Congress and Pay Television

An Editorial

Pay television will rise or fall in the Congress of the United States. Considerable controversy has arisen as to whether the Federal Communications Commission or the elected representatives of the people has jurisdiction in this matter.

The FCC has closed its books on the filing of comments with respect to a public test of pay television and has stated that it has jurisdiction in this matter under law and can authorize such a test.

Senator Potter of Michigan is one of the most vigorous outspoken opponents of pay television in the United States Senate. He is not satisfied that the FCC has jurisdiction in this matter but contends that jurisdiction resides with the people and their representation in Congress.

"As to whether these systems would reduce free television to such a state of economic distress that it could no longer afford to bring into the American home such significant events as our national political conventions, the inauguration, the coverage of public proceedings and other programs in the public service, one can only hazard a guess," he said in a recent speech on the subject. "But should that happen the prospect of requiring a citizen to drop money in a slot in order to see and get to know candidates for a public office is a dismal one indeed."

Senator Potter says that it has cost $190 million to construct the nationwide service of free television and American viewers have brought the total investment up to $15 billion.

"The citizens have made this investment on the assumption that they were buying an instrument on which they would receive free programs without further assessment other than that required for the maintenance of the sets," Senator Potter said. "The citizens had every right to that assumption, because it was the Congress which enacted legislation based upon the historic premise that broadcasting would be free that we would not pursue systems employed in many other nations throughout the world that provide for the regular collection of taxes for the privilege of using a television set."

Economy Prop, Says Rayburn of Any Tax Cut

By UNITED PRESS

Speaker Sam Rayburn said today a tax cut for this year will be considered by Democratic congressional leaders as a prop to bolster the sagging economy.

He said the leaders "pretty soon" will review the nation's economic position to decide where a tax cut, if there is one, "would do the most good."

Once that is done, he told a news conference, they will decide "if the budget would stand" it.

Other congressional news: Tunstall, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) urged in a Senate speech that France be compelled to return the American-made planes used by the French air force in a bombing raid on a Tunisian village last week.

FCC: Bernard Schwartz testified that Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack had "acknowledged" receiving several thousand dollars from an attorney representing a firm which won a disputed Miami TV channel. Schwartz, the ousted counsel of a House Commerce subcommittee now called as a witness named the attorney who made the payments as T.A. Whiteside, a close friend of Mack. Mack voted to award the channel to the firm Whiteside was representing.

Military: Sen. Ralph B. Flinders (R-Vt.) proposed to the Senate that President Eisenhower's National Security Council be made responsible by law for strategic military planning, now the duty of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Postal: Spokesman for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and magazine publishers, testifying before the Senate Post Office Committee, differed over whether postal rates should be increased. The committee is considering a House-passed bill raising most rates by 1 or 2 cents. Wayne B. Shepherd, representing the Publishers, said the increases were necessary to guarantee government fiscal responsibility. Robert A. MacNeal, president of Curtis Publishing Co., said that even now magazine and other second-class mail users are being forced to foot the bill for post office costs such as rural free delivery. He was supported by Francis R. Cawley, vice president of the Magazine Publishers Assn. Inc.

The administration's farm policies also came under fire in Congress.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.) said the President's statement Wednesday predicting an early economic upturn was "very unrealistic" as a review of current conditions and "quite inaccurate" as a forecast. He said it showed that Eisenhower "is still insulated from the facts and almost immune to them."

Senate Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield (Mont.) agreed the President's appraisal was "too rosy, too glowing." He said it did not dispel the need for programs that would provide "spurs as well as Sputniks."

Republicans rallied behind the President with Lincoln Day oratory denouncing administration critics as "the Democratic gloom and doom brigade."

Commerce: Secretary Sinclair Weeks exhorted Republicans to "slug back" and "nail every reckless charge."

Food Cover for Quail Can Go Into Soil Bank

It is possible that the ASC through the County Committee may accept land in the Soil Bank Conservation Reserve for the establishment of cover and food for wildlife including quail. The rental rates would be similar to those paid for planting pine trees. The ACP payment would be available for land preparation, certain seed, fertilizer and lime. Interested land owners should advise with the County ASC office at once.

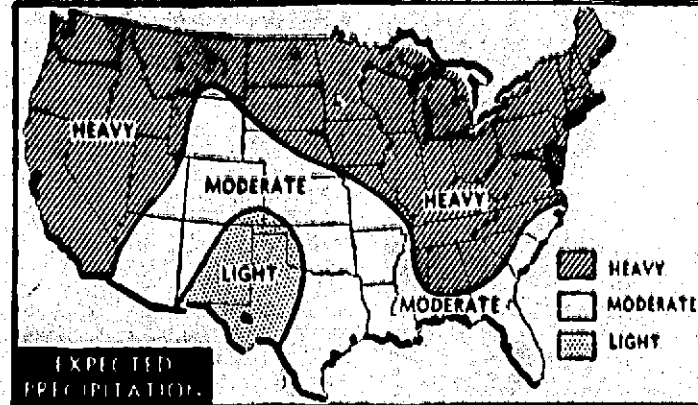

Lester Wade, Federal Aid Representative, Arkansas Game and Fish Commission, will discuss establishment of cover and food for wildlife on request with groups and individuals.

Woman Killed in Trailer Wreck

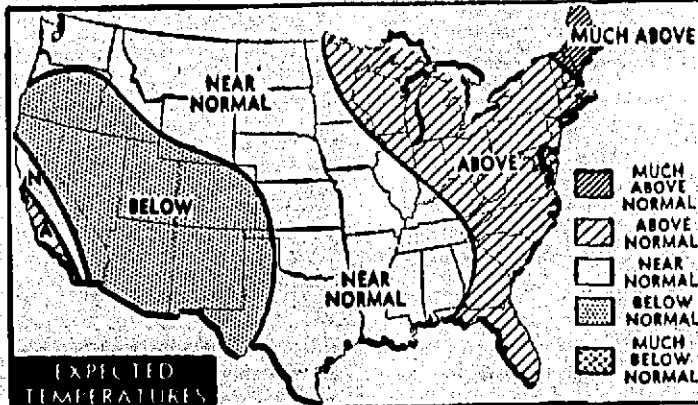

LAKE DAVID (UP)—A 30-year-old woman was killed early today when her car hit a tractor-trailer just north of here on U.S. 61, state police reported.

She was identified as Jean Barnes, of Jones, Ark., and was pronounced dead on arrival at the Crittenden County Memorial Hospital.

The state police said the woman's car slammed into the side of a truck driven by Clifford Cole, 30, of Carthageville, Mo. He is being held by the Crittenden County Sheriff's office pending a hearing Friday on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Precipitation during February is going to be heavy over most of the nation. Near-normal amount is expected in Gulf states. One area to experience subnormal moisture pokes upward from the Gulf into the Southern Plains states.

Temperatures above normal are expected over the northeastern and South Atlantic states during February. Below-normal temperatures are seen for the southwest, with exception of an above-normal band along the west coast. For the rest of the nation, near-normal readings.

Conservatives Taking Licking in Britain

LONDON (UP)—The Conservative Party suffered a major defeat in Wednesday's parliamentary election in Rochdale. Even party newspapers described the loss today as a "shattering" one.

The Conservative seat in the House of Commons was won by Labour's Jack McCall, a 47-year-old diesel engine fitter. The Conservative candidate could do no better than third behind the Liberal Party.

The Socialists immediately set up their usual clamor for immediate general elections, in which they believe Prime Minister Harold Macmillan would be voted out of power.

The results saw Laborite McCall polling 22,133 votes and Kennedy 17,603. Conservative J. E. Schofield, a real estate agent, won only 9,827 votes. The post was vacated by the death of Conservative William Schofield.

The "by-election" was the 16th since 1957. In almost every one the Conservative vote dropped by a heavy percentage whether the Conservatives won or lost. The Laborites won the last previous by-election and reduced the Conservative margin in Commons to 55.

Kite Contest Slated Here February 23

A kite flying contest will be held at Municipal Airport Sunday, Feb. 23 at 2 p.m., weather permitting. The contest, sponsored by the Hope Star, is open to any youth in the Hope Trade Territory not over 18 years old. Cash prizes will be awarded for the largest and smallest kites, the most beautiful kite and the highest flying kite.

All kites must be home-made, except for the ones used in the highest flying contest, and all kites must be made of paper.

Farm Leaders Line Up Group to Halt Benson

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate farm leaders lined up backers today for a bipartisan attempt to defuse Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson and freeze the farm price supports as an anti-recession move.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, indicated he would draft a bill freezing supports at their 1957 levels. He said he would press for quick Senate action.

Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.), the Agriculture Committee's top Republican member, met with Humphrey and agreed to "go along."

A ban on dropping supports below the 1957 level would reverse cuts already ordered by Benson for dairy products and wheat.

A price support freeze would force Benson to drop any plans he might have to slash supports for corn, soybeans, oats, barley, grain sorghums and other crops for which 1958 rates have not yet been announced. It would not affect cotton since Benson has raised price supports on that crop this year.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at Des Arc Presbyterian Church by the Rev. R. Adams. Burial by Herndon-Cornelius will be in Des Arc Cemetery.

Sale of land along Little River certainly proved trouble for a lot of fellows with cabins in the area. The new owner wouldn't heed any sort of appeal. He said move them and there was nothing else to do. It involved probably a half dozen cabins.

Asks Permanent Expulsion of Negro Pupil

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—The superintendent of Little Rock schools today sought permanent expulsion of Negro student Minnie Jean Brown from integrated Central High.

Supt. Virgil T. Blossom at the same time said he had suspended the 16-year-old girl for two weeks for her part in two separate racial incidents last week at the formerly-integrated school.

Blossom appealed to the school board late Wednesday to expel the girl because of the incidents in which she has been involved.

Minnie Jean was suspended from school once before, just before the Christmas holidays, for pouring chili on two white students. Altogether, she has been involved in five racial incidents at Central High.

Blossom, in a letter to the girl's parents, said Minnie Jean had violated an agreement under which she was reinstated in school after the chili dumping incident.

She agreed not to "retaliate either verbally or physically to any harassment by other students, but to leave such things entirely up to the school authorities to handle," Blossom said.

Last week Minnie Jean was hit with a purse after calling a white girl "poor white trash," and a white boy poured a bowl of soup over her head in the school cafeteria.

The Negro girl's mother said she would protest Blossom's request for permanent suspension of her daughter.

The mother of 15-year-old Florence Callaway, a white student at Central, said Wednesday night her daughter was kicked Wednesday by Thelma Mothershead, a Negro girl.

The white girl said she and another white girl were walking upstairs behind the Mothershead girl and another Negro girl.

"We laughed," said Florence, "and she must have thought we were laughing at her so she turned around and kicked me. Then I called her something I shouldn't have."

Mrs. Callaway said she first planned to "get a lawyer" but said she had since "about decided to forget about it."

Meanwhile, police said they had turned in a threatening letter written to a white girl student at Central over to the FBI. Officers would not reveal the girl's name but admitted she had been involved in one of the Central High racial incidents. The FBI had "no comment" on the letter.

At the same time, Gov. Faubus signed an order late Wednesday which dissolved some 300 organizations and corporations in Arkansas which had failed to pay their 1957 state corporate franchise taxes. Among them was the NAACP.

He said he had not noticed that the NAACP was among the organizations being dissolved.

"I might point out that there's an old adage that if the shoe pinches, it's their shoe," he commented.

Faubus, however, would not comment on Blossom's proposal to ban the Brown girl from Central.

"It's a problem to school officials and school administration," he explained.

Revenue Commissioner J. Orville Cheney said that on payment of the taxes, due Feb. 1, the NAACP, or any of the other people on the list, for that matter, would be "back in business." He described the governor's order as "a routine annual transaction."

NAACP leaders at Little Rock said they would confer with attorney before taking any action.

One Radio Dead in the Explorer

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. satellite Explorer circled the globe today with one radio apparently dead but the other still going "strong."

The Pentagon said Wednesday the 108-03 megacycle transmitter appears to have quit sending just as U.S. scientists predicted it would immediately after the satellite was launched on Jan. 31.

However, it said the second unit, operating on 102 megacycles, is expected to continue sending signals for the worldwide minitrack system for another two or three months.

Dr. Marshall T. Steel, Methodist Minister, will open Sunday with Dr. Marshall T. Steel delivering the morning sermon. Dr. Steel is president of Hendrix College, Conway. Prior to that he was pastor of Highland Park Methodist Church on the SMU Campus, Dallas, probably the largest single church in Methodism. Church officials here feel "very fortunate" to be able to have Dr. Steel open the Dedication Week and invite the general public to hear one of the great men of Methodism.

GSA Okays 3 Projects in Arkansas

WASHINGTON (UP)—The General Service Administration Wednesday listed three approved lease-purchase projects in Arkansas costing an estimated $1,899,000 which could be built within the next two years.

GSA officials said they presumed these were among the 92 mentioned earlier Wednesday by President Eisenhower in his statement on the nation's economy.

The President said 58 projects involving financing of 105 million dollars will be initiated in 1958, and 34 projects involving financing of 300 million dollars will be started in 1959.

The agency's list of approved lease-purchase projects and the financing required include those for Arkansas: Helena, post office and courthouse, $1,020,000; Hot Springs, post office and courthouse, $1,720,000; and Little Rock, federal office building, $9,150,000.

The GSA list of approved projects, compiled several weeks ago, would require total financing of 692 million dollars. The list covered 92 projects approved since the lease-purchase law was enacted in July, 1954. One post office and courthouse at Rock Island, Ill., already has been built; four other projects will be built funds provided by Congress, and the status of a six is in doubt.

The remaining 92 projects are to be built by private financing estimated at 630 million dollars. The government will buy them through lease or rental payments over periods ranging from 10 to 25 years.

Rudy Gandy of the University of Mississippi at Oxford was elected treasurer and Farris was named a member of the national board of directors of the organization. The association includes colleges and universities in Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana.

FCC Chief Took a Fee, Schwarz Tells Probers

By NEIL MacNEIL
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Bernard Schwartz testified today that Federal Communications Commissioner Richard A. Mack had "acknowledged" receiving several thousand dollars from an attorney to vote the firm in which Mack afterward voted to award a Miami TV channel.

Schwartz made the statement under oath to the special House investigating subcommittee which fired him Monday as chief counsel.

He identified the attorney who made the payments as T.A. Whiteside, a close friend of Mack.

He said that Whiteside was employed by a law firm to help obtain award of Channel 10 at Miami for Public Service Television Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of National Airlines.

The subcommittee, created to investigate six federal regulatory agencies including the FCC, fired Schwartz Monday after he accused a majority of the group of wanting to whitewash the inquiry. He said the majority fired him despite evidence he said he had of "White House influence" on regulatory agencies.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Bernard Schwartz goes back before the House subcommittee which fired him today to tell what he knows about an alleged pay-off to a Federal Communications Commissioner.

Schwartz was appearing before the House subcommittee on legislative oversight under protest. The former chief counsel of the investigation into federal agencies was subpoenaed to appear at an open hearing after he complained to an angered Chairman, Owen Harris (D-Ark.) that he wanted to go to New York on "personal affairs" and would prefer to testify no earlier than Monday.

Harris told Schwartz nor the committee named the alleged guilty commissioner. There was some doubt the hearings would remain open. Schwartz was reported hesitant to give all names in public for fear of hurting innocent persons.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) planned to offer a resolution to set up a special Senate committee to investigate regulatory agencies. Morse examined some of Schwartz's files and said they "bear out that the Eisenhower administration is honeycombed with political immorality."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) led a bipartisan move to force Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson to call off plans for lowering crop price supports.

Humphrey, a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said he would draft a bill freezing supports at their 1957 levels and press for quick Senate action. He said the action was needed to prevent further lowering of farm income and head off recession.

Aiken Agrees on Move. Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.), top Republican member of the agriculture committee, agreed to "go along" with Humphrey's move, which would reverse cuts already ordered by Benson for dairy products and wheat.

Democratic congressional leaders were talking about ordering a big tax cut to lift the nation's lagging economy.

They indicated if the Federal Reserve Board doesn't relax curbs on credit they may feel "forced" to free funds through tax reduction.

Several Democratic senators described President Eisenhower's economic message Wednesday as "very unrealistic" and "too rosy."

Other congressional news: Missiles: A House Armed Services subcommittee published testimony showing the Air Force may dump the Army's developed Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile as a weapon. In previously secret testimony Air Force Secretary James H. Douglas said he's deciding between the Jupiter and the Air Force's own Thor IRBM.

Giardello in Decision Over German

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—It may be April in Paris for Joey Giardello or a Philadelphia fight with Neil Rivers, but the fourth-ranked middleweight took a long-range view today to a summer bout for the championship.

Giardello, who now has a run of 15 straight bouts without a loss in his comeback following his bad-boy reformation, left-handed his way past tough but unranked Franz Suzzina, the transplanted Teuton, now living on Long Island, N. Y.

Giardello won the unanimous decision over Suzzina in a nationally televised bout before 2,100 of his one-time home town fans. He now lives in Rosedale, also on Long Island.

Joey has been offered, and may take, an April fight with Charles Humez in Paris, while his manager, Tony Ferrante, said he is in line for a summer bout with the winner of the Carmen Basilio-Ray Robinson title fight.

The victory for Giardello was his 75th in a 34 fight career and was won in the early rounds before the crowd.

News Briefs

JACKSON, Miss. (UP)—Money—how to get it and how to spend it—is the big problem of the legislature today. Senators are preparing to take up re-enactment of the controversial salary as a means of financing increased teachers pay. And House members are working on a stack of other up-probation measure. All of the legislators are mindful of a report Tuesday that better education bill passed recently in the Senate may cost far more than anticipated.

TUPELO, Miss. (UP)—Police say all evidence in the death of a young Pontolite county mechanic Saturday night points to an accident. But just the same they are checking for foul play. The body of a 21-year-old Allison Calloway was found in an icy creek at Tupelo Tuesday. Police believe he stumbled into the water while in a weakened condition from drinking. An autopsy shows he died of exposure. But a report that two youths were chasing Calloway has police checking.

JACKSON, Miss. (UP)—A 23-year-old broker, Robert Quinlley, is in critical condition with a bullet in his head—and an armed guard at his door. Jackson police have formally charged him with the murder of 20-year-old Mrs. Saimie Renfro in her apartment Saturday. Police say Quinlley shot the pretty young mother and then tried to kill himself. He is expected to live, however. Police say it was all caused because he was in love with her but she did not return the sentiment.

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Judge Bobby Steel of Nashville filed a corrupt practice pledge with the Secretary of State's office Tuesday to run for re-election to his Ninth Judicial Circuit judgeship. The Ninth Judicial District takes in Pike, Polk, Little River, Sevier and Howard counties.

FAYETTEVILLE (UP)—The University of Arkansas College of Arts and Sciences has received a grant of $28,100 to expand its program for superior students, Dean G. D. Nichols said Tuesday. The money came from the Carnegie Corporation. It will be used to include freshmen and sophomores in the program, which is headed by Dr. H. D. Hannay, professor of philosophy.

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Officials of the University of Arkansas Medical Center are to meet Friday with city manager Dean I. Dauley and the city manager board.

The get-together is to discuss the Center's patient quota law which was declared unconstitutional last week by Pulaski chancellor Guy E. Williams. The city contends the law will bankrupt it.

FORT SMITH (UP)—The Arkansas Highway Commission awarded a contract for final construction on Little Rock's La Harpe Boulevard to the Forsgren Bros. Construction Co. of Fort Smith.

Forsgren's bid was low among four and was for $416,282. The project on the riverfront drive includes surfacing, construction of retaining walls and installation of an overpass and a underpass.

and Mrs. R. G. Shuffield, who issued invitations to 49 couples.

A blue and white color scheme was carried out. Punch and individual cakes were served from a table which was covered with a lace cloth over blue with a centerpiece of a bride and groom and white candles encircled with ferns.

DOROTHY DIX

Furniture Flits
 Hubby's in a Huff

Dear Dorothy Dix: My wife is a furniture mover; not the kind that gets paid but the kind that gets my goat because I never find a sofa or chair in the same place two nights running. Half the time I don't even know if the dining room has been moved into the library or our bedroom has become a sun porch. Should I permit it (she gets such a kick out of it) or protest?

Dear Gary: Hell, your feelings with a protest, but I doubt if it will do any good. Chronic furniture movers, like artists, are born not made. Since your wife is such a paragon in all other respects, better resign yourself to the mobile home. At least, you'll never get bored.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have read many letters in your column from middle-aged women who wanted friends, especially those of the opposite sex, but what about lonely men? It's just as difficult for them to meet people; a man can't barge into any old gathering and find himself the center of attraction. I know. Until quite recently my life was pretty well tied up with dependent parents, sisters and brothers. I have been "on my own" so to speak for just two years. To complicate matters further, I have been transferred to the western branch of my firm, and am totally alone in a strange city. Now where are all your bright ideas for making friends? I'd like to meet the kind of woman who would make a pleasant "date" for dinner or the movies, who would not have diamonds (things, that is) in her eyes after the first date, reasonably attractive, interested in books, and up on current events. I want a woman friend who isn't gabby or grabby. This is a hard one. Have you an answer?

GRAYSON

No, gentle readers, I do not have Grayson's complete name or address. He wrote, very cunningly, in anonymity. As for Grayson, I'm not going to pretend that the sort of woman you want grows on trees or is lurking behind every blade of grass. She's reasonably scarce, but definitely existent; find her and you will be well worth the trouble it takes. In every business office, and I can assure you, I'm sure that your firm is a large one, there are men who have sisters, cousins and aunts; their wives have best girl friends who would be happy to know you. Make yourself acquainted at church; confide your predicament to the clergyman in charge who undoubtedly has congenial women in his parish. I have known many very successful matches that were made this way.

To be successful in your quest, all you need is a little enterprise, good manners, well-fitting clothes and the ability to be interesting and agreeable. Whether these suggestions are bright and right, depends on you.

Dear Dorothy Dix: What should a girl do when she dates and the pelling gets too heavy? P. L. Dear P. L.: She should send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "The Pelling Problem."

Trial Set for 2nd NAACP Officer

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Pulaski Circuit Judge William J. Kirby today set Feb. 25 as the trial date for Mrs. Birdie Williams on a charge of failure to comply with North Little Rock's so-called Ben-nett Ordinance.

Mrs. Williams, president of the North Little Rock chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, refused to submit membership lists and financial statements as required.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We are two girls 15 years old. We'd like to do some work together—something besides babysitting. We'd like something different. Can you suggest anything?

MARY and SUE Dear Girls: The child labor laws in your state are very strict, and I doubt if there's any other job you could get except babysitting. If you have some exceptional talent, such as sewing, you might offer it around to your neighbors, but that's about as far as you can go. Spend the next few years studying hard so that when your wage-earning days do come, you'll be able to take full advantage of them.

Dear Dorothy Dix: What should a girl do when she dates and the pelling gets too heavy? P. L. Dear P. L.: She should send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "The Pelling Problem."

quested by the city. The North Little Rock ordinance is similar to the Little Rock ordinance upheld Tuesday by Judge Kirby who fine-lined Mrs. Williams $25 and costs for failure to submit NAACP records. Mrs. Bates is president of the Arkansas chapter of the Negro organization.

The beginning of free public libraries was established in London by an act of Parliament in 1850.

Cold Is Most Severe in Arkansas

By UNITED PRESS

The longest and most severe cold wave of the season is expected to continue to harass Arkansans during the next 24 to 36 hours.

The snow forecast for parts of Arkansas today, however, failed to materialize, except for light falls early at Texarkana. But temperatures dropped to as low as nine degrees early today, and were still at or below freezing at mid-day.

Little relief is expected until Friday. The forecast said it would be partly cloudy and cold this afternoon, tonight and Thursday, partly cloudy and not so cold Friday.

Highs today will rise no higher than the mid 20's to mid 30's, lows tonight will be eight to 10.

north and 16 to 22 south, and highs Thursday 28 to 38 degrees. The extended forecast—Wednesday through next Monday—said temperatures will average eight to 10 degrees below the normal maximum of 55 and the normal minimum of 36 degrees. It will continue cold with a slow-rising trend beginning next Monday. Precipitation for the period will be moderate, occurring mainly next Saturday or Sunday.

The high in Arkansas Tuesday was 43 at Camden and Hot Springs.

In addition to the nine at Mountain Home today, Gilbert, Flippin and Fayetteville had 12, Walnut Ridge 15, Batesville 16, Blytheville 17, Newport 18, Morrilton and Ozark 19, Fort Smith 20, Dardanelle 21, Hot Springs 23, Camden 24, El Dorado 25, Pine Bluff and Texarkana 26, and Arkadelphia 27.

At 11 a.m., skies were partly cloudy at El Dorado, Pine Bluff, Little Rock and Memphis, and clear elsewhere in Arkansas. Fayetteville had a state low of 16 degrees, Flippin 20, Fort Smith 22, Memphis 23, Walnut Ridge 24, Little Rock 25, Pine Bluff 27, El Dorado 32, and Texarkana 33.

Wood Heater Blamed for Couple's Death

MENA (UP) Funeral services are scheduled today for a couple killed when a wood heater burned all the oxygen in their home.

The two were James E. Chambers, 78, and his wife, Maggie 77. Their bodies were found Monday. A coroner's jury held the deaths were caused by carbon monoxide poisoning.

Monsanto Disputes Unemployment Pay

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Monsanto Chemical Company asked the state Supreme Court Tuesday to disallow unemployment compensation payments granted to 235 employees who went on strike at its El Dorado plant March 2, 1956.

The strike by members of the International Union of Operating Engineers ended June 8, 1956 after the company resumed production using its clerical, supervisory and technical help.

The state employment security division board of review granted the men one and two weeks of pay in a split decision.

Monsanto contended they were not eligible for unemployment pay because they voluntarily left their jobs.

Negro Group to Organize Voters

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—A Committee for Concerted Action will meet here Saturday to organize Negro voters into the State Voters Association, regardless of party.

C. H. Jones, editor of the Southern Mediator Journal, and Bishop O. L. Sherman of Little Rock, are co-chairmen of the committee.

Another meeting, sponsored by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, will be held at the same time at the Negro YWCA.

Rev. Rufus K. Young will be in charge of the meeting. He said I. S. McClinton, president of the Arkansas Democratic Voters Association had been invited.

State Police Assists in School Probe

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—State Police Director Herman Lindsey said today that some of his men were assisting an Arkansas Legislative Council sub-committee in investigating the racial impasse at Central High school.

The probe was ordered at a recent meeting of the Council, and State Rep. Paul Van Dalsen of Perry county was named as head of the sub-committee.

Lindsey said his men were working under Capt. Alan Templeton, and were questioning Little Rock school teachers at odd times, fitting the calls in with their regular work schedules.

He said the investigation had been going on for between six weeks and two months. No deadline has been set for completion of the probe.

The state police reports will be given to Van Dalsen.

There is a possibility that Gov. Orval Faubus will base his calling a special session of the Arkansas Legislature upon findings of the state police and recommendations of the sub-committee and the Legislative Council.

The governor says Tuesday there was a "probability" that he might call a special session before next fall to consider the integration problem.

Van Dalsen was reportedly in Brinkley today, and not available for comment on the state police investigation.

Guard Cost Figured at $4.2 Million

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The cost of keeping federalized Arkansas National Guardsmen at Central High School since Sept. 24 last year has totaled $4,285,000, Gov. Orval Faubus said Tuesday.

He explained in a letter to Rep. Thomas G. Abernethy (D-Miss.) the figure was $3,875,000 through Nov. 30, $10,000 a day for nine days after that and $5,000 a day since Dec. 10.

"These figures do not include the occupation costs to the Air Corps, the FBI and other agencies of the Justice Department," the governor commented.

The figures were requested by the representative, who did not explain why.

The National Guard was federalized when President Eisenhower sent the 101 Airborne Division to Little Rock. The number was cut to below-company size after the paratroopers left and the crisis eased.

No Polio in State During Last Week

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Arkansas has gone through another week without any additional cases of polio.

For the week ending last Saturday no cases were reported to the State Board of Health. Only one case has been reported this year, and that the week ending Feb. 1. For the same period last year, four new cases had been reported in Arkansas.

Another first from Ford—a brilliant new version of a great American classic

THE 4-PASSENGER THUNDERBIRD

The new 4-passenger Thunderbird abounds in luxury—yet it is priced far below other luxury cars!

Pure Thunderbird in spirit and performance, but now it seats four...with full fine-car room, comfort and luxury!

Utterly unlike any other car on the American Road, the new 4-passenger Thunderbird is the first of a new size and new type of fine automobile.

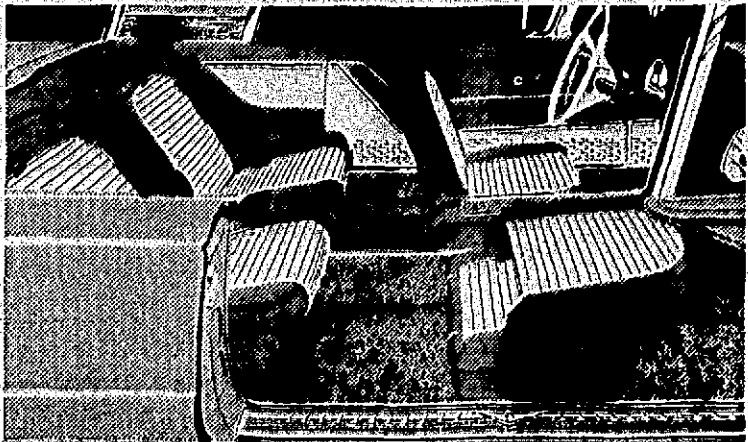

This straight-lined, low-swept jewel stands only slightly larger than the raciest car built, a mere 52.5 inches high. It handles and parks like a dream. Yet it gives enough leg, head and shoulder room to seat four varsity crownmen in lap-of-luxury comfort. And the doors are exceptionally wide—even in furs and evening dress a lady can step in and out with ease and grace.

Pure Thunderbird in design, this new 4-passenger beauty is pure Thunderbird in vigor and spirit as well. This means brilliant performance whether on Main Street or on U.S. 1.

Ford engineers have lavished their most advanced design features on the new Thunderbird: New 300-horsepower Thunderbird 352 Special V-8 Engine is a superlative precision instrument, thrilling to command. New single unit body construction molds top, body and frame into one single, solid piece of sculptured steel.

Conceived, designed and built to be the most advanced prestige car on the American Road, the new Thunderbird is so wonderfully poised, so uncannily sensitive to your every wish that you must drive it to believe it.

Visit your Ford Dealer. Let him tell you all about this exciting, different car.

Luxurious comfort and full fine-car passenger roominess distinguish the glamorous 1958 Thunderbird. The exclusive "panel console" rises from the floor and houses heater controls, ash trays, radio speaker—and power window controls serving the convenience of all four passengers. And wide, glide-through doors give you direct access to all four individually contoured seats. Clearly, the new Thunderbird is America's most individual car for purity of line, for elegance, for vigor.

AMERICA'S MOST INDIVIDUAL CAR at a price far below that of other luxury cars!

Providence Reds Know How to Score
The Providence Reds, one of the easiest teams to score on in the American Hockey League, also have one of the most potent offenses.

The Reds gave up five goals to the last-place Buffalo Bisons Wednesday night, but two of them came after they had built up a comfortable lead for a 3-5 victory.

The victory gave the third-place Reds a four-point lead on the fourth-place Springfield Indians, who dropped a 2-3 decision to the Bisons.

The main reason for Quachita Baptist's recent surge, Marvin Venable, advanced to the fifth spot, with an 18.4 average.

J. P. Lovelady, the freshman phenom from Arkansas Tech, led below the hot-shooting Venable but still was in sixth with 17.4.

The newcomer to the top 10 was Jack Harrison, another scoring factor for Quachita. He was in seventh place with a 14.6 average.

Ronnie Bennett of Tech with 14.5, Harold Mober of Arkansas Tech with 14.2, and John Morris of Hendrix rounded out the conference's elite basketball

Final Stretch in Arkansas College Ranks

The Arkansas Intercollegiate conference basketball race entered the final stretch this week with scoring leaders punched together like race horses at the finish line.

Trinity Monroe Ingram of Arkansas State Teachers College headed the pack with a 23.4 average. Three other sharpshooters were close behind.

Henderson State's "terrible twosome," Bill Shurran and Bill Thompson were second and third, with averages of 21.5 and 19.3, respectively. Corbett Passmore of Arkansas College had an 18.4 mark.

The main reason for Quachita Baptist's recent surge, Marvin Venable, advanced to the fifth spot, with an 18.4 average.

J. P. Lovelady, the freshman phenom from Arkansas Tech, led below the hot-shooting Venable but still was in sixth with 17.4.

Cobb Believes Williams Can Play Long

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)

By OSCAR HALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — Ty Cobb, said Ty Williams can go "at least as long as I did" and the Boston Red Sox star agrees with Cobb question.

Cobb played until he was 43. Williams, who last season was the top hitter in baseball with a .368 average, will be 40 in August.

According to Cobb's figures, Williams has at least three good seasons left in him and Williams backed this up by confiding to friends "I feel I have several more good years left."

"Several" is a rather indefinite span of seasons.

In Good Shape
"But you can't get away from the fact that Williams is in remarkable physical shape and takes care of himself," said Cobb, who hit .323 for the Philadelphia Athletics when he closed it out at 43.

Williams is looking forward eagerly to a season in which the rich Red Sox will pay him $125,000. He is in happier winter splinters than ever and is concerned only about an ankle injury he suffered fishing in Labrador last fall.

Doctors have told him the ankle "it will be all right but he admits it still bothers me."

Cobb thinks he will be all right, too, and asserts that Joe DiMaggio "could have played a couple more years, too."

Joltin' Joe discloses that he could have "written my own ticket" to keep playing with the Yankees when he stepped down after the 1951 season at the age of 37.

"Dan Topping offered me a blank contract and told me to fill in my own figure," says DiMaggio. "But I knew I couldn't play every day and I wasn't worth that kind of money to the Yankees."

A Proud Man
There is more to DiMaggio's decision than that. Joe is an extremely proud man. He cherishes the great moments he had with and for the Yankees and when physical ailments cut down his efficiency and he faced periods of inaction on the bench, Joe decided that he owed it to himself as well as to the team to step down.

He played only 116 games in 1951, and batted what was, for him, a mediocre .263.

"But he could have played several more years," Cobb insisted after listening to these factors. "My point is that all athletes have a longer playing life than they did in my day."

Whatever Happened to Bob Finney?

By UNITED PRESS

Deep in the heart of Texas, they remember Bob Finney as the man who pitched the $85,000 forward pass for Southern Methodist's 1935 football team. It was a pass that locked Texas Christian and earned for SMU the first Rose Bowl invitation ever extended to a team in the Southwest.

With the score tied 14-14 in the fourth period, SMU had the ball on its foe's 37 yard line, fourth down and four yards to go. It was a punt situation but Finney, after faking a punt, passed to Bobby Wilson for game — and invitation — winning score. The bowl check to SMU was a neat $85,000.

Whatever happened to Bob Finney? After a career in pro baseball as both player and minor league manager, Finney returned to Dallas and today is a prominent business executive.

THE STORY: Detective David Wintino digs into the record of Ed Owens, a retired policeman, who was killed while delivering bonds. He learns that Owens and his partner Al Wales solved a gangster killing during prohibition days.

CHAPTER IV

I took the subway over to the Greenwich house, paying my fare. Seems dumb to me to advertise every day that you're a detective. I walked into the detective room a few minutes before eight. Danny Hays was already there, breezing with a sleepy-looking fat slob named Ace who has a terrible memory for faces. I picked up the daily report sheet, read the arrests. There wasn't anything of interest except they had collared a clown named Hanson up on Washington Heights trying to pass a stiff check in a drugstore. Seems Hanson had bounced a check in the same store a few months ago. Most crooks are dumb.

I said hello to Danny as I put the report sheet down. "How about this paperhanger Hanson, think he could be the phony doctor dropping rubber around here?" He was working a drugstore.

"We're going to check," Danny said.

Ace waved a heavy hand at me and yawned. "Now I can go home and sleep in peace, the younger generation has things in hand. Will you look at that outfit?"

"Cut the wisecracks, Ace. An ex-cop's been killed."

Ace stood up, like a tent coming erect, and favored me with a belch. "Got special news for you, kid. The cemeteries are full of ex-cops. When our number comes up we go with the wagon too. There's nothing new on Owens, not a lead—one of those great big blank walls."

"Lab come up with anything?"

"Nothing except he was killed with a .38." Ace stretched and for some reason I suddenly thought of Mary.

"Ace, you married?"

He turned to stare at me, heavy arms still in mid-air, a dopey look on his fat face. "Sure I'm married. Now that brought that brainstorm on?"

"Nothing. Just... uh... thinking about Owens' wives. Like this Owens' wife: What did she have to say?"

Ace gave me a fat grin. "Being as I'm just a detective on the night tour Captain Lampkin hasn't time to go over all the details with me."

"Everybody treats this as a big yak. We ought to spend a lot of time with Mrs. Owens, and with Wales, and dig into their past arrests. Plenty of work to do," I said.

"There certainly is, Wintino, and you can start by getting me a buttered roll and a container of coffee—light. Too tired to eat this morning," a voice said behind me.

I turned and Lieutenant Reed was standing in the doorway kind of stooped as though afraid of bumping his bald dome. He had tired circles under his eyes and needed a shave. I said, "Certainly, Lieutenant," and took the two bits he held out.

I didn't like the idea of Reed using me as coffee boy. And it was about time he learned coffee and a buttered roll was 32 cents.

I returned to find a tall, well-set-up guy, about 27, sitting with Reed. The guy had a brown gabardine suit that had to be custom-made the way it fitted like a grape skin.

As I put the bag on the desk Reed said, "This is Detective Austin from Homicide. You've met Detective Hayes; this is his partner, Detective Wintino. They were the first of my squad to reach Owens."

Austin nodded at me and said, "You must have shrunk since you took the physical. Never figure you for five eight." He had a booming clear voice.

"I was wearing elevator shoes at the time. They send you up here to check my height?"

Austin winked at Reed.

"Captain Lampkin wants you to have a talk with Mrs. Owens. That's about the only angle we haven't covered thoroughly. I suggest you go over to her flat now. I'm sending Hayes downtown to the line-up to look over a rubber check artist we're interested in, so take Wintino with you." Reed glanced at the wall clock. "Unless she gives you something, be back here around 10."

"I got a car and drove Austin up to the Bronx," I asked him. "Have you seen Owens' old partner, Al Wales?"

"No, but I hear he looks like a creep. Seems they made an important collar back in 1930. Got a guy who killed a hot-shot goon named Boots Brenner. Ever hear of Brenner?"

Austin nodded as he took out a pack of butts.

"I remember reading about Brenner's case. Punk who wanted to be a second Vince Collyer than tough stuff. Want a smoke?"

"I don't smoke. Thanks."

"You must have made a fortune in the Army."

"I did my time after the war. What about this Boots Brenner?"

I asked a little scorned.

"Well, I told you, a punk. Still ed to cut into the big pie but got himself killed before the big boys took much notice of him. What's he got to do with Owens?"

"I don't know, yet. I'd like to have another talk with Wales. Of course the guy they rapped for killing Boots sat in the chair, but I have a feeling we ought to dig deeper into their arrest records," I said turning into 145th Street and stopping for a light.

Automation Has Hit the Boat Industry

By ED SAINSBURY

United Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (UP)—Automation has hit the boat industry and before long, the price on 15-foot runabouts may drop so low that just anybody can afford one, a boat building firm said today.

"We're producing molded boats at the rate of one hull every 13 minutes," H.A. McCune of Bowman Boat Co. said "and our engineers tell us that, in theory we can get our production up to one hull every three minutes. So in practice it might take five or six minutes."

What that difference in production time will mean is between $300 and $400 in the cost of a boat, McCune said.

"Last year it was taking us about half an hour to produce a hull," he said, "and we were selling the boats for $1,375. Just this week we cut the price on the same boat to $975, and when we cut that product on time down to five or six minutes, I think we can sell them for between $575 and $675."

Not Over Producing

McCune had no fears about Bowman's ability to dispose of its increasing production, even should the recession continue.

"I've had surveys made," he said "and we found out that during the depression, back in the 30s, the sales of fishing boats zoomed down. Our boats are all purpose and if you happen to knock a hole in the hull, we sell a do-it-yourself repair kit for $4.95 that'll fix any puncture."

McCune said his survey partially covered Detroit auto workers laid off during the depression.

"They bought a fishing boat," he said, "closed up their apartment, bought a tent, went out and lived off the land. They fished out the cost of the boat."

McCune's firm will produce between 5,000 and 6,000 boats this year, less than half as many as it turned out in 1937. But that was a good change, he said.

Fire Spa'ked Survey

"We had a fire a year ago," he said, "and it burned us out. We were turning out 12,000 boats a year, made of aluminum, plywood, molded, mahogany, and every other type. But the fire forced us to re-survey everything we did."

"Now we won't add a boat to the line unless we're sure it's new, practical, and offers something the public wants. We're going to put in an aluminum line next year, but this year, all our production will be molded."

A Dog Show Develops a Few Facts

(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By OSCAR HALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—A number of dazzling dog facts are evident today in the waiting wake of the Westminster Kennel Club's annual puppy parade.

These are, absolutely without order:

—The smallest dogs have the biggest names.

—While meat steaks are a new delicacy for chow hounds, man or beast.

—Gray greyhounds are a rarity.

—Just because Towser is full of ticks it doesn't make him a good watch dog.

—Dogs named "Rover" have to wind up with an inferiority complex.

He Can't Shoot Fouls

Getting a handle for these blue ribbon hounds must be as tedious as balancing the budget. For instance, a peke, one of the smallest dogs in the show, is called "Alderbourne Kenure of Kenthill of Robwood." They can trace his lineage back farther than the Vanderbilts and when he barks it sounds like he's saying, "Stand aside, peasant!"

The biggest animal in the show was "Sir Coler of Ambleside," an Irish wolfhound who eats three pounds of meat at a clip. He stands 7-foot-6, when he rears up, which is six inches taller than basketball's Wilt the Stilt Chamberlain. Sir Coler, however, can't shoot fouls.

Broadway and the ladies have had a resounding effect when it comes to tagging these pampered pups. There are Great White Way overtones in such as "Wishing Well's Brigadoon," a Highland terrier; "MacBeth's Naughty Nannette," a poodle; "Freedom's My Fair Lady," an air dale; a point titled "Timber Acres' Mister Wonderful," a dachshund, known as "Terndon's Kiss Me Kate," and a boxer, "Merry Widow of Clover Downs."

"Old Fraley Wants Cat

The doggy set, it may be suspected, also is liquidly cognizant. If you don't think so, get load of these:

"Jericho's Little Brown Jug," a job named "Wee Wee Martini," and "Champagne Caprice," all poodles; "Stilo's Sparkling Bygones," a doberman; "Badger's Moonshine," a schnauzer; "Elvynne Real Scotch," a terrier, and his running mate, "Sherida's Daintier," a peke called "Winclit Venencia," and a St. Bernard named "Brandy Keg's Tinker Bell."

GOPs Ignore Fund Raised by Oilmen

By VINCENT J. BURKE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—A $100,000 Republican fund raised by Texas oil men today appeared to have killed for a second time their politically explosive natural gas bill.

Some congressional figures who called the bill as good as dead compared the fund with a $2,500 campaign contribution offered Sen. Francis Case (R-S.D.) by an oil company in 1936 when a similar bill was before Congress. Case publicly rejected the contribution, causing a sensation.

The measure, which would sharply relax federal controls over producer prices for natural gas, passed then but was vetoed by President Eisenhower because of what he called "arrogant lobbying tactics" in the case affair. He said the principles of the bill were desirable nevertheless.

Summing up today's sentiment of several congressmen, Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.) said, "The oil and gas people are using oil and gas to cook their own goose."

Flanders, who voted for the measure in 1936, said he would be in the negative if it came up again because "now the merits (of the bill) are obscured by the people pushing it."

Rep. Morgan M. Moulder (D-Mo.), who also endorsed the bill earlier, said he was likewise switching to the opposition after the Washington Post and Times Herald reported the Texas fund was raised to muster GOP House support for the bill. Moulder said that was the "last straw."

In the wake of the newspaper's disclosure of a letter written by H.J. (Jack) Porter, GOP national committeeman from Texas, was a king-sized political headache for Republicans and a question of what was to become of the $100,000.

GOH National Chairman Mearns

Alcorn, with President Eisenhower concurring, said the national committee would not accept the money "in the light of the contents of the letter."

Porter, a Houston oilman, said Alcorn's action was "all right with me." He said the party in Texas "needs the funds as we have a large deficit."

Chance for Special Session in Fall

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today there is a "probable" chance of a special session of the Arkansas legislature before next fall.

He said if the session is called, a bill to prohibit use of Federal troops to force integration of public schools would be one of his proposals.

"I would say the possibility of a special session is probable," Faubus said. "But there is a chance a solution might be found within the state to prevent another affair like the one at Central High School in Little Rock."

The cost of a special session, which the governor pointed out is footed by the taxpayers, is one of the reasons the session might not be called. He said there is a "remote possibility" congressional action or Supreme Court decision might make a special session unnecessary.

Oral Roberts Controversial Figure

(First of Two Dispatches)
By ALBIN KREBS

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Oral Roberts is possibly the most misunderstood, probably the most flamboyant, and doubtless the most controversial of the scores of evangelists who have recently captured the religious imagination of Americans and spread a new spiritual revival across the land.

The tall, forceful, and immensely influential Oklahoma man is second only to Billy Graham in popularity and, surprising to many, in earnings annually—more than a million.

When Roberts conducts a week-long crusade at Hempstead, N.Y., beginning March 25, he will be the second major evangelist to visit the New York area in less than a year. Graham conducted a 16-week crusade here last summer.

Who Is Roberts?

Who is this man Roberts, about whose head controversy swirls? Why do thousands believe him to be truly anointed by God to save souls and heal bodies, while others attack him or dismiss him as a fanatic and faker?

The core of the answer, as well as the center of the controversy, lies in faith-healing.

Actually, Roberts and the Pentecostal Holiness Church, of which he is an ordained minister, are not alone in their belief in the healing power of prayer and faith. Faith-healing is recognized by most Christian denominations, and in the past few years, increasing emphasis has been placed upon healing of physical ills by direct appeal to God.

But in most cases the appeals to the Deity have been sedate affairs. Roberts believes, so much so that in the sight of God the entreaties become half-hearted, apologetic and unconvincing.

Begins With Radio

About 10 years ago, Oral Roberts began radio broadcasts of his simple, direct, often strident appeals to God to instantly and miraculously cure the ill who came to his tent revivals. The radio talks created a mild storm which was only a preview of the virtual hurricane of controversy his television films were to stir up.

Over 140 TV stations, viewers watched the long "healing lines" of the lame and the halt, the sick, the dying, the crippled, the blind and the deaf as they made their tortuous way up to the platform to be touched and prayed over and "healed" by Roberts.

Time after time, Roberts, his intense voice chanting extemporaneous prayers, constantly demanding heavenly help, clutched a subject's cancerous throat or twisted limb, seeking miraculous cures for supposedly incurable

Redstone Undergoes Successful Testing

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—

The Redstone missile, workhorse of the Army's Jupiter-C satellite carrier, blasted into cloudy skies Tuesday night in an apparently successful test launching.

The 60-foot Redstone, a 200 to 300-mile range missile already in operational status, roared skyward from the missile test center at 7:32 p.m. e.s.t., but was visible for only about 30 seconds before it zoomed into a low-hanging bank of clouds which spoiled the show for scores of spectators lining the beaches.

The roar of the Redstone's 75,000-pound thrust engine was heard, however, for nearly three minutes as the missile streaked out over the Atlantic.

The Army plans to bring field crews here soon to test fire the Redstone as part of the missile training program. The Redstone, built by the Chrysler Corp., now uses a liquid propellant, but a longer-range version is being developed which will use more powerful solid fuel.

Mr. & Mrs. Ike Fly to Georgia

WASHINGTON (UP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower fly to Thomasville, Ga., Thursday for about 10 days of rest and relaxation.

They will stay on the milestone plantation of former Treasury Secretary and Mrs. George M. Humphrey, just outside the city of Thomasville, which is located in the southwest corner of Georgia.

Clearing his desk for departure, the President made no appointments today. He will not hold a news conference this week.

ills.

And time and again, the emotion-choked cries could be heard: "Praise God, praise God, I can walk!" "I can see again, I can see!" "My baby, my sweet little baby is cured, praise God!"

"Thank you, sweet Jesus, thank you!"

Listeners Name Him Healer

This hundreds of thousands of people throughout the world who have watched Roberts on TV or in person or heard his radio sermons sincerely consider him a man truly touched by God, a divinely sent healer of the sick. Others, with equal sincerity, look upon the 46-year-old evangelist as an exploiter of the sick, a charlatan willing to use for his own shameless purposes the human misery he finds in others.

What Roberts' detractors cannot ignore is the fact that thousands of people have claimed they were cured through his prayers, that he established the necessary contact between them and God, the healer. Roberts concedes that many "cures" have been claimed in psychosomatic cases, where the illness was more mental than physical. But other cases cannot be so simply explained.

Caribbean Gambler Is Arrested

NEW YORK (UP)—Caribbean

gambling boss Meyer Lansky was picked up by police shortly after he arrived here Tuesday night and questioned for three hours about the Oct. 25 slaying of his old mobster pal Albert Anastasia.

Police said Lansky had nothing helpful to say. He was booked at 1:55 a.m. e.s.t. on a charge of vagrancy, although he had more than $1,000 in his pockets and insisted he was a man of legitimate business—Cuban gambling.

He will have his day in court today—weekend court, since it is a legal holiday.

Lansky, 55, could be a key figure in the Anastasia murder inquiry. The slain executioner of Murder, Inc., was reputed trying to take at the time he was shot out of a hotel barber chair by a pair of masked gunmen. A committee of Lansky's minions was reported to have delivered Anastasia a "Keep Out" warning just a week before his death.

Lansky, an old friend of such underworld big-shots as Charles (Lucky) Luciano, Frank Costello and the late Bugsy Siegel, ar-

Boy Admits Luring Child to Her Death

NEW YORK (UP)—A 15-year-old boy who talked incessantly of space travel confessed to police Tuesday night that he lured a 7-year-old girl to the roof of an apartment building and threw her 13 floors to her death.

Police said the boy, Francis Medaille, offered no explanation given at Idlewild Airport by plane from Miami.

Inspector Frederick Lussen said Lansky had told questioners he was in New York a few days before Anastasia's murder but was in other Florida or Cuba on the day of the slaying.

for his act of murder except that "I just got an urge." They said the little girl, Catherine Hagman, apparently had not been sexually assaulted.

The pudgy, bespectacled boy had been flunked out of a Roman Catholic high school three weeks ago. Brothers at Cardinal Hayes High School, a tough academic school to which admittance can be gained only by competitive examination, said Medaille was bright but "a strange, strange boy." They said they had told his parents he needed psychiatric treatment.

Predicts 10 More Years of Farm Subsidy

WASHINGTON (UP)—At least

10 more years of federal farm subsidies were predicted today by a joint congressional economic subcommittee.

The group recommended that farm production controls be tightened.

It also proposed that farmers be allowed to buy and sell their federal marketing quotas for major crops. The subcommittee said in a report that "pressures" now surrounding farm policy apparently make it impossible for Congress or the administration to coordinate the clashing demands of American agriculture. It said Congress should consider setting up a federal farm board of commission to operate farm programs within a framework fixed by Congress.

The real name of the famous British Highland Regiment known as "The Black Watch" is "The Royal Highlanders." But, they still cling to "The Black Watch" name by which they were first known when they were organized in 1725.
